FARMER RUSK'S SOCIAL RANK.

The Chicago Tribune, which has always had a warm side for Governor Rusk, prints an editorial on the social rank of the secretary of agriculture which will be read with interest and amusement by the governor's friends in Wisconsin:

"Some of the social microscopists in Washington have made an alarming discovery under the law fixing the presidential succession. In examining the provisions to fix the social rank of the various cabinet officers it is found that in case of a vacancy occasioned by the death of both the president and the vice president, the succession passes to the secretary of state, and so on through the cabinet down to the attorney general, and there ends. The presidential succession bill was passed before the bill creating the new cabinet department of agriculture, and the latter contains no provision making the head of that department eligible to the attorney general. So far as general principles are concerned this does not affect the position of the secretary of agriculture in any way. He is a cabinet officer, an executive advisor, and, though at the tail of the list, he draws as large a salary as Mr. Blaine. The experts, however, have discovered that his ineligibility for the presidency affects his rank, and that upon state occasions, as well as those of 'society,' it will not be in good form to set him as high up as the others who might be president, if and it, etc. Some special lines of etiquette must be devised, therefore, to meet his case which will set him a little apart from those in the purple and remove any danger of infringing upon their social prerogatives from lack of the necessary discriminations. Fortunately in this case tough and bluff old Jerry Rusk is not sensitive or thick-skinned, and doesn't care a continental for 'society' or its farfetched and flummery. He knows he represents the biggest and best and the most virtuous and industrious constituency in the country, that the whole people are dependent upon them for their substance, and that the trade and commerce of the country owe their prosperity to them. He knows the other departments would be in a sad fix if he should go wrong, and that so far as the actual fitness is concerned his department stands at the top. No sympathy needs to be wasted, then, on the secretary of agriculture. He has a tremendous army of grangers behind him to whom it will be a matter of supreme indifference where 'society' may place him. He may not have the opportunity to cut as much of a swell as his associates in Washington in social receptions or lead off in the swim, but the bluff old fellow will have a high place in the farm houses all over this broad land long before his term is out. The horny-handed grangers, their wives and daughters, will have no doubt where he belongs."

THE COUNTY OPTION QUESTION.

The reports from Madison indicate that there is considerable doubt surrounding the chances of the county option bill. A pretty thorough canvass has been made of both houses, especially of the senate, and the prospects for its passage are not flattering. There are several stumbling blocks in the way of this temperance bill. Some have an opinion that should a county option law be enacted it would prove a dead letter, basing this judgment on the idea that there would not be a sentiment strong enough among the people to see that the law would be properly enforced. Another stumbling block is that many republicans regard the passage of the bill as bad politics for the party, and therefore will not take any step that would in any wise jeopardize the party.

These objections can be easily answered. It is not for the legislature to pass judgment on the question as to whether the law, were it enacted, would be a dead letter. There is certainly a growing sentiment in the state demanding more progressive and more stringent temperance measures. The intelligent sentiment of Wisconsin is surely on the side of the county option plan. It is the business of the legislature, therefore, to respond to this rapidly growing sentiment—pass the bill, and leave the responsibility of its enforcement to the people and courts.

The objection that the enactment of the county option law would be bad politics, rests on very uncertain grounds. The republican party has always been the party of progress—always leading in great moral reforms. If there is to be any signal advancement in this temperance movement it must be started and pushed forward by the republican party. Single handed and alone must it fight this temperance battle, for the time never was, and it will probably never come, when the democratic party will meet the demands of the people on this great question. The republicans must assume the responsibility of the passage of the bill, and then they will have done their duty, and the people will be charged with the enforcement of the law. There are thousands of earnest temperance men. They have fought on the republican side in many a political battle. They want the party to be wise and courageous on the question of temperance reform. It does not seem to them that the legislature can well afford to ignore the appeals and the will of this large class of republicans. Their faith in the party should be confirmed. Their confidence in its ability and wisdom should not be shaken. It is good politics to be on the side of right, never losing ground, but always advancing. This has made the republican party in the past the strongest and the most illustrious political organization the world has ever seen. Its record of progress, of lofty political teaching, of justice to humanity, forms one of the grandest stories in the history of any country or any age. The republican party should keep that record clean, and thereby it will not lose its strength nor dim the luster of its record.

The readers of the Gazette will heartily enjoy reading the following brief article from the New York Sun. It is a compliment to President Harrison, and the humorous dig it gives Mr. Cleveland will be read with a smile even by our democratic friends. The article runs as follows:

We congratulate the Hon. Benjamin Harrison upon his pedestrian exercises. From this habit of his he has derived some good. A man must take exercise of some kind or lose in physical, intellectual, and, it may be, moral tone. He can no more keep himself at his desk, if he neglects exercise, than a musician can retain his "spirit of sense" and skill of touch if he keeps his fiddle and his bow on the wall with Uncle Ned's. It is not yet known whether General Harrison means to be an employer and a director of labor, or merely a presidential office drudge, like his predecessor. The example, the melancholy example of the latter should be profitable for reproof. Mr. Cleveland has toiled at his desk, accumulating a mass of tissue, not wisdom. If he had taken a stiff ten-mile walk or gallop every day his brain might have fattened and his body wasted. His blood might have danced into healthier circulation and activity, and his solemn incommunicativeness been melted into wholesome human sympathy. His grumpy vapors might have been dissolved in the air and sunshine. His intellect might have been quickened into livelier apprehension of the wants and wishes of the people. He would have been more careful of his health, and more careful of his friends.

Harrison is fond of walking, and like General Grant, he will do more walking in Washington than riding.

Postmaster General Wamsamker has informed his friends that he will go to Philadelphia every Friday night or Saturday. He has an adult bible class at present numbering 381, and he has promised to be with them at Bethany at 2:30 every Sunday afternoon, if possible. Mr. Wamsamker does not travel on Sunday, so that in order to teach his bible class he will be obliged to leave Washington on Saturday and return on Monday morning.

Those who are interested in the problem of the relative success of public men and the value of a collegiate education will not be able to determine much from the composition of the president's cabinet. Blaine, Proctor, Miller and Noble are graduates of Washington, Dartmouth, Hamilton and Yale colleges. The other half of the cabinet are graduates of the university of hard knocks, as Talmage would say.

Mr. Spurgeon recently sent a telegram to his parishioners worded: "See Matt. vi. 34." The words of this passage are: "Take, therefore, no thought for the morrow, etc." By some blunder, however, the telegram as delivered read, "See Matt. vi. 34," the words of which are: "But I say unto you swear not at all," a message which amazed the great preacher's flock.

It is learned from the Courier-Journal that on the fourth of March the democracy received "its second baptism of fire." One was when it espoused slavery and sided with the south, and the other was when it espoused the cause of free trade and sided with the policy of foreign countries.

Postmaster General Wamsamker is a generous patron of the department over which he has been called upon to preside. The Philadelphia Inquirer states that his letter mail alone costs him $150 a day, while "the mail order department at the big store employs forty persons."

The assembly did a good day's work on Friday. It indefinitely postponed 39 bills.

PEOPLE AND THINGS.

Pennsylvania votes upon prohibition on the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo—June 18.

Jerry Rusk of General Harrison's cabinet was the tow path companion of Garfield when the latter was a boy.

The addition of four stars to the national flag makes Ben Butler's United States Banking Company $200,000 ahead.

Daniel and the democratic lions have gone but Benjamin, Levi, Elijah, and Jeremiah are there, and the country is safe.

Horatio J. Sprague, of Massachusetts, is the oldest officeholder in the United States service. He has been consul at Gibraltar since 1848.

Samuel Jordan, a colored barber of Kansas City, is said to have assumed a fortune of $150,000 from his trade during the last fifteen years. Next!

The emperor of Japan has a modest little allowance of $2,500,000 a year for his household department. His private fortune is large and increasing, and he thoroughly understands business matters and keeps himself well informed as to his investments.

A Mrs. Jane Smith, a Georgia woman, is reported having managed a hundred-acre farm for ten years, and has more than made the farm pay for itself. That kind of women will do more to rehabilitate the state than all the noisy politicians within its limits.

The Rev. T. M. Harris, pastor of a colored church at Taunton, Mass., wants his flock to put scrip in his purse to the value of $180. Since the summer he has had $14.36 on account, and the balance demanded is backed by his claim that, in addition to his spiritual efforts, he has swept the church, built the fire put up the stovepipe, and shoveled the paths.

Noah Brooks and William D. Howells are among the few well-known writers who have learned to manipulate the typewriting machine. Mr. Brooks, who has been used to dictating, his literary productions to a stenographer, now sits down to his typewriter and plays on the keys as he composes. He finds that this process saves a great deal of time.

General Adam Badeau has begun suit against Charles L. Webster & Co., to recover $22,500 damages for their failure to publish his work, "Grant in Peace," which he declares the firm agreed to put before the public, printed and bound, as a companion piece to the Grant "Memoirs." It seems that Adam Badeau is causing the Grant family a good deal of trouble. He is lavish and malignant.

JOHN ERICSSON DEAD.

The Famous Swede Who Designed the Monitor Passes Away.

New York, March 9.—Capt. John Ericsson, the famous Swedish engineer who designed the ironclad Monitor and launched her, complete, in 109 days, died this morning shortly after 12 o'clock. He had been ill for only one week when a physician was called in. Owing to his advanced age, Mr. CAPT. JOHN ERICSSON failed to rally. The deceased was born on July 31, 1803, in the province of Wernland, Sweden.

Other deaths reported are: At Boston, Sidney Bartlett, the Nestor of the Suffolk County bar, aged 90 years; at Waterloo, Iowa, Robert Manson, one of the contractors on the pioneer railroad lines of the West, aged 73; at Evanston, Ill., J. J. Spaulding, one of Evanston's best-known citizens, by being struck by an engine; at Baltimore, Md., George Hawkins Williams, aged 70, one of the leading members of the Baltimore bar; at Danville, Ill., August Lesueur, an old settler, aged 73; at Dixon, Ill., Alonzo W. Mead, a highly respected citizen, aged 85; at Crosswold, Mich., Seneca J. W. Van Hook, a leading lawyer at Whitewater, Wis., Rev. Mr. Lillie, a retired Congregational minister, aged 94; at Osseo, Wis., George W. Stillman, an old settler, aged 85; at New Glasgow, Wis., Robert A. Coghlin, one of the best-known lawyers and public men in the state, aged 68 years.

NINETY YEARS OF LIFE.

Venerable Gen. Simon Cameron Celebrates His Birthday.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 9.—Gen. Simon Cameron celebrated his 90th birthday today.

His comfortable home on Front street was the scene this morning of a remarkable demonstration. The State Legislature visited the venerable statesman in a body, and with them were several of the many prominent citizens of this city.

All day telegrams and letters of a congratulatory character have poured in on him from many of his old friends. While Gen. Cameron is not near so vigorous physically as he was a year ago, and locomotion is becoming more difficult, his memory borders on the marvellous. It has given him great satisfaction to-day to entertain many friends who led on him with reminiscences of the early days of his life.

One incident he related about Jeff Davis that is not generally known. It was just before Davis left the Senate that he invited Gen. Cameron to breakfast with him at his home. After the breakfast was telling how the South was going to set up for itself, when Gen. Cameron remarked: "Mr. Davis, the very first bullet that is fired at the old flag sets every slave in the South free."

NO WISCONSIN TIMBER FRAUDS.

Agents Allen and Roberts Fail to Substantiate the Charges.

ASHLAND, Wis., March 9.—Interior Department agents Allen and Roberts have been on the trail of the timber frauds in the Lake County Gravel reservations investigating alleged timber frauds and went to Flambeau reservation to-day to finish their work. They expect to finish the investigation tomorrow and will return to Washington next week to make their report. A most diligent inquiry has been made as to the prices paid for pine and various other matters which are to be reported to the Secretary of the Interior. Scalers and operators have given testimony which will be the principal basis of the report.

Mr. Allen told several of the Ashland loggers that his visits to the reservations had developed nothing whatever to substantiate the charges of jobbery and spoliation which they were detailed to investigate.

THREE MEN BURNED.

An Employee of the Kansas City Stables Dies of Fire.

KANSAS CITY, March 9.—Henry Stebbles, a hostler in the employ of the Metropolitan Cable company, who had a painful experience in the fire which destroyed the stables Wednesday night, gave it as his opinion that three men perished in the fire. They went in ahead of him for the purpose of saving some of the mules, and he is positive that none of them escaped. He himself was rescued in a fainting condition. The debris now being removed is twenty feet deep, and it will be some time before it can be positively ascertained whether or not there were any lives lost.

COUNTERFEITERS IN LIMBO.

Arkansas Officers Unearth a Great Quantity of Counterfeit Money.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 9.—United States Marshal Faulkner arrested in Conway county yesterday Martin Thorp and William Garner, leaders of the most extensive gang of counterfeiters in the southwest.

The officers have been on the track of these men for months. An immense sum of bogus money, consisting of $5, $10, and $20 imitation gold pieces, was also secured. Over a dozen persons are implicated, comprising some well-known people of Perry and Saline counties. Thorp and Garner have been bound over. The arrest causes a great sensation.

Don't disgust everybody by hawking, blowing and spitting, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and be cured.

IS THERE A SAMOAN WAR?

SECRETARY BLAINE DECLARES THERE IS NOT.

San Francisco and New York Papers Believe the Story Is True—What They All Say of the Rumor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 9.—Great prominence is given by the papers here to the rumor that an American man-of-war was sunk in Samoan waters in a fight with the German corvette Olga. While no credence is given to the report the publication has caused a sensation. Following the report from Kiel, a few days ago, of a reported engagement, the fact that the name of the vessel alleged to have been sunk is omitted adds to the disbelief in the report. But it is assumed that the vessel would have been the Nipsic, Capt. Mullin commanding. Capt. Schneck, Quartermaster of the United States Marine Corps, verifies the statement that the Olga was supplied with torpedoes, which is not the case with the three American war vessels dispatched to Samoa. The steamer Alameda of the Oceanic line, which left here for Australia Feb. 9, touched at Tutuila, the southern island of the Samoan group Feb. 25, and arrived at Auckland March 3. Had any engagement occurred at Apia she would probably have learned the fact at Tutuila, and carried the news to Auckland, where the fact would have been called. It is conceded that the information might not have reached Tutuila, as Apia is seventy miles distant, in time for the Alameda to carry the news to Auckland. The steamer Zealandia is due at this port March 10, with news from Samoa down to March 2.

Discredited at Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The reports that the United States war ship Nipsic has been sunk at Samoa by the Germans are not confirmed by any information received here. There has not been a single word received at either the state or navy department to confirm the report. The officials of these departments place no reliance on it.

Secretary Blaine said that the report of a conflict at Samoa is, in his opinion, untrue. He said that the Nipsic is regarded as a mere stock jobbing rumor, having no foundation whatever. Commodore Walker of the Navy Department holds similar views.

Mr. Bennett Believes It.

New York, March 9.—The New York Herald is in receipt of a telegram from James Gordon Bennett at Paris confirming the Breslau dispatch about Samoan troubles. Also saying the Herald will have a dispatch direct from Auckland on Samoa. Also that a naval officer in Washington telegraphed to a naval officer at Marsa Chait, confirming the Breslau dispatch.

The Herald to-morrow will print three columns of comment in various localities relative to the reported blowing up of the Nipsic by the German corvette Olga.

Referring to the torpedo armament of German gunboats Commodore Seward said:

"The working range of these torpedoes, to be fired with accuracy, is about 400 yards. The Nipsic is a torpedo boat, and is armed with torpedoes. It contains about 93 pounds of gun-cotton, equal in force to 300 pounds of dynamite. They are launched from the side of the ship and after being aimed and shot into the water they travel at the rate of 35 knots an hour, and if the Nipsic was within the range of the Olga it would have been impossible for her to have got out of the way."

Commodore Seward said the Nipsic might have been in such a position that it was impossible for her to get out of the torpedo range, premising that the reported engagement actually took place. If such was the case it would fare badly with her. Concluding, the Admiral added:

"The Trenton and Vandalia must be there by this time, and if anything should have happened to the Nipsic you may rest assured that they will be heard from."

Admiral Kimberly, the commander of the Trenton, is a courageous officer and was with Farragut at the battle of Mobile Bay through the war. He will stand no nonsense, and if there is any trouble will give an excellent account of himself."

Commodore Harmony, the assistant secretary of the navy department, said:

"Of course I do not think there is any truth in the report, but upon a statement of possible conditions I make my comments. If the Olga had been in the town and injured American property and American citizens the commander of the Nipsic would protect first, and then, failing to do so, would protect our interests, would open fire. A naval officer has all the discretion any one has. He can make war without orders, if in his judgment the circumstances demand it."

"I do not think the report true for many reasons. I have noticed several sensational items in German papers of late as disparaging a nature to the United States. The Herald's report is a sensational item, and that city was in a flutter last night over the receipt of the news that the Olga had sunk the Nipsic in Samoan waters."

Toussing the authenticity of the news of the encounter the Herald refers to the fact that a certain German ship with the news might have reached Auckland within four or five days of the occurrence and called this fact to Germany before the arrival there of a mail line boat, upon which the American dispatch agent stationed there by Secretary Whitney two months ago would be able to depend for the same information.

THE CLAYTON MURDER.

The Grand Jury Determined to Ferret Out the Assassin.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 9.—Advice from Arkansas, say that Judge Cunningham, of the Circuit court of Conway county, in charging the Grand Jury, laid special stress on the murder of John M. Clayton. He was very severe in denouncing the crime, and urged the jury to make every effort to discover the murderer and bring him to justice. The jury is composed of good men, both Democrats and Republicans and it has gone to work with earnestness, determined to ferret out the assassin of Col. Clayton and the theft of the ballot-box at Plummerville in November. B. P. Mayo, foreman of the grand jury, said: "We are determined to follow every thread of evidence we can secure about the killing of Clayton, and, if possible, hunt down the assassin. We are going to take time, and do our duty to our country and to ourselves in this matter."

Mrs. Gurley Is Very Ill.

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

is the only brand upon which the United States and Canadian Governments have ever made a favorable report. See United States National Board of Health, Washington, D. C. Bulletin—Supplement No. 6, Page 33—See report to the Commissioners of Internal Revenue, Department of the Treasury, Washington, D. C., April 3rd, 1888.

No better proof of the purity, strength and healthfulness of DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER AND DELICIOUS FLAVORING EXTRACTS can be offered than that they are recommended for general family use by the following Heads of the great Universities and Public Food Analysts of the United States and Canada:

Professors Doremus, Withaus, and Bartley, of New York; White, of Georgia; Kedzie, of Michigan; Scheffner and Bettner, of Missouri; Dwight, of Virginia; Babcock and Ordway, of Massachusetts; Howard, Bohlander, McKewen and Smith, of Ohio; Saben, of Vermont; Austen and Wilbur, of New Jersey; Barker, of Pennsylvania; Collier, of Washington; Albrecht, of Louisiana; Evershart, of Texas; Hilgard, of California; Wheeler, Long, Delafontaine, Taton and Mariner, of Illinois; Smith, of Beloit College, Wisconsin; Hayes and Rice, Canada.

A SIMPLE TEST

Of the purity of baking powder is to mix in a tin cup two heaping teaspoonsful of the powder with three teaspoonsful of cold water, place it over the fire, stirring constantly, allow it to boil thoroughly, or until the gas escapes freely; then smell; if adulterated the odor of Ammonia will be plainly perceived. The presence of Ammonia in most cases indicates that Alum is used, as nearly all the Alum of commerce contains Ammonia. Pure Baking Powder will not give the faintest Ammoniacal odor. Baking Powders composed equally of Starch, Alum, and terra alba, boil into a thick dirty paste.

THE CREAM OF TARTAR used in DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER is the strongest and free from all lime and other impurities. Prof. PETER COLLIER, Chief Chemist for the United States Government, Washington, D. C.

The presence of Ammonia in most cases indicates that Alum is used, as nearly all the Alum of commerce contains Ammonia. Pure Baking Powder will not give the faintest Ammoniacal odor. Baking Powders composed equally of Starch, Alum, and terra alba, boil into a thick dirty paste.

THE GRAND ARMY BENEFIT.

"Driven From Home" Well Received at Lappin's Opera House Last Evening.

Some of the Professionals and Amateurs Who Won Special Distinction.

Lappin's Opera House was fairly well filled last evening by ladies and gentlemen to witness the production "Driven From Home," for the benefit of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R. With the exception of Mr. Harry C. Chapman, the manager under whose direction the play was presented, and who appeared in the dual role of "Jacob Gooseneimer," and "Harry Clifton," the former an old miser and the latter an escaped convict; Mr. R. F. Renne, who represented the character of "Edgar Jivens," the second, and Hattie Bogart Chapman, representing "Joe Gibbs," a New York thief, the characters were taken by home talent, many of whom appeared for the first time on the stage.

Even without the aid of the professionals well trained in their lines and performing faultlessly their parts, the local talent would have been enabled to appear to excellent advantage; but thus doubly encouraged each one braved the bright foot lights and the eyes of the audience without faltering, and won praise and frequent applause as the play progressed.

The hand bills and advertisements have already given the plot of the play, and it is unnecessary to even give a synopsis of it now. It is full of interest from beginning to end, and several who took parts in last night's performance won credit marks for the able and satisfactory manner in which they acquitted themselves.

Of the large number of people engaged in the presentation last evening, none did better than Miss Flossie DeLong, who for the first time in her life appeared in an emotional role. In this she fully maintained her standing as a delineator of character, and won frequent applause.

"Matilda Jane," a servant, was very cleverly personated by Miss Marie Babcock, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Geo. C. Babcock. Added to the sprightly manner in which she appeared, she sang a catchy song in no clever a way that she captured the audience and was compelled to respond to an encore.

Mrs. Christine Hawley, as "Miss Clifford," made many new friends by her sweet voice in singing a beautiful solo.

"Judge Stanley" was impersonated with much dignity by Will Oddy; and Will Woodcock won new laurels in the character of "Patrick Kilkenny," the Irish policeman. John Menzies and Wilson Lane were at home in the characters of attorneys at the trial scene, as was A. F. Lee as sheriff, and S. C. Hastings, the clerk of the court.

Among the juveniles of the play were: Master Dorman Chapman, as "Billy Knight," the news-boy; Bell Lepper and Kate Fenton, as "Olivia" and "Minnie Stanley," E. S. Hayward, as foreman of the jury, gave evidence that he was no novice at the head of a gang of men.

"Driven From Home" will be repeated this evening, and Lappin's Hall should be crowded, and the Grand Army post given a grand and substantial benefit.

Dr. Sperry has a choice and ready command of language, and with a natural grace and wit, always gives an exceedingly entertaining and valuable lecture.

We invite the attention of the readers of the Gazette to the notice of Pastor Koenig on the inside page of this paper, as it will prove interesting reading matter.

Han. P. Richardson, Esq., son of Hon. and Mrs. Hamilton Richardson, who has been spending the winter on the Pacific slope, has returned satisfied that there is no place like sweet home.

Remember the meeting at the room of the Business Men's Association this evening. All parties, especially the ladies, interested in establishing a female seminary in Janesville, are requested to be present and meet Miss Goodwin, of Chicago.

Mrs. Jones, how is your health this morning? Thank you, madam, much improved. I bought a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup last night, and after the first dose, my cough was checked, I slept well, and have not coughed since this morning.

Some idea of the prescription business of this city may be formed, when the Gazette remarks that Homestead, one of the seven druggists, this morning received seven barrels and two large hogheads filled with prescription bottles, only one purchase.

L. H. Becker entertained three tables of the whist players who have been trying their prowess in the Business Men's Association rooms, at his pleasant home in the first ward last evening. Congenial company, well matched constant and tempting refectations made the occasion thoroughly enjoyable.

The concert to be given Wednesday evening at the First M. E. church will be strictly first class in every respect. Great pains and care has been taken in arranging the programme and we trust all will feel repaid for attending. Single tickets 25c.; two 40c. Commences at 8 p. m.

By request of the attorney for the plaintiffs, the Edgerton Bible case has been continued until the August term of the supreme court. Parties speaking for the plaintiffs state that sufficient funds are already in the hands of the treasurer to defray their expenses in this matter before the court.

The First M. E. church has been arranging ever since the week of prayer for a revival in their church this winter or spring, and in a quiet way fifteen persons have been converted at the regular services. By action of the official board it was decided to begin to-morrow evening. The indications point to a very successful meeting.

The Women's Industrial Exchange will give a tagot party Tuesday evening, March 12th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nash, corner Madison and West Bluff street. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Supper will be served from 5 o'clock until 7 p. m. The entertainment at 8 o'clock will consist of music, recitations and tableaux, while the fire in the grate glows with each participant's tagot.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Leahy, 400 North street are sorrowing at the loss of their little six months' old son, Johnny, who died last night at midnight, after suffering about three weeks with a severe attack of measles. The bereaved family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad bereavement. The funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Charles Deaver, formerly clerk in the Grand Hotel, this city, but now clerk in the Spring City Hotel at Waukesha is indignant. The other day he and his well-known Waukesha young woman pleaded guilty to disreputable conduct and were fined ten dollars apiece.

It was whispered at the time that the plea of youth was entered to save two other young men, leaders in Waukesha society, from publicity. Deaver now comes to the front with the claim that he had permitted himself to become the tool of the parties who sought protection, and pleaded guilty under a misapprehension of facts. He will at once ask a new trial at the May term of the circuit court.

Beaver claims that he was induced to enter the plea of guilty before the justice, with the understanding that the other parties implicated had taken the same action.

Fresh fish at Ryan's meat market today.

The W. W. Kimball Co., of Chicago, have already made a revolution in the manufacture of pianos. They have a new scale piano, made wholly of hard wood, with workmanship upon it that is unsurpassed by any other piano company in the country, and which for purity of tone and beauty in finish, are not excelled by the higher priced pianos. These new instruments so attractive in appearance and durable in workmanship, in fact have more improvements than many of the pianos that sell at much higher prices, and yet the price of the new Kimball is exceedingly moderate compared with its value. The Kimball Company have certainly become benefactors in furnishing splendid pianos at figures that do not frighten those who need to purchase.

Mr. D. D. Wilson, in the Norcross block, River street, has these pianos for sale.

MR. GRIFFITHS' CONDITION.

IT IS REPORTED AS GIVING PROMISE OF RECOVERY.

There has been some occasion for the alarm that has been manifested regarding the critical condition of Mr. John Griffiths, but by no means to the extent circulated. It is confidently believed by those in position to best understand the true nature of the case that there is no reason why he should not surely and speedily recover. In this hope all will unite.

The financial troubles none regret more than Mr. Griffiths. They would not have occurred but for his sickness and his only thought has been for returning health that his best efforts may go toward indemnifying every creditor. Of this he needs no greater guarantee than his past integrity.

Accidents will occur not only "in the best regulated families," but everywhere and at all times. Therefore keep Salvation Oil convenient.

COLD FEBRUARY WEATHER.

THE WINTER THAT DID NOT COME UNTIL SPRING WAS NEAR.

February was the only month of the past winter that deserved a record in the way of low temperature. Janesville observers say that it was the coldest February with the exception of the years 1875 and 1885 that has been experienced in nineteen years. The average temperature for the past eighteen years according to the signal service is 23.2 degrees above zero. The average temperature for last month was six degrees below this. At the beginning of the month there was an excess of temperature amounting to 209 degrees since January 1, 1889, but the cold weather of February created a deficiency of six degrees since January 1st by the end of the month. The total precipitation for February was two inches, or nearly normal. The precipitation was well distributed throughout the month.

THE SEDUCTIVE SPIKE TAIL.

A Chaste but Homely Garment that is Fast Winning Janesville Hearts.

Hower City Men Who Present a Gratifying Appearance in Full Dress.

OCIAALLY, this city has in the past few years changed remarkably. More and more regard is paid to the formalities and out of this regard has grown the victory of the claw hammer coat. There is no sign so eloquently suggestive of allied gentility and knowledge of the world as lies in the graceful wearing of that once derided garment. The coat is far from a handsome one, and there exists in its sharply defined lines something that lends additional awkwardness to an awkward figure in precisely the same ratio that it lends grace to a graceful one.

But all this is of no avail. The present form of dress coat is accepted the world over as the symbol of good breeding in man. Wherever it has penetrated, the community may be regarded as enlightened.

Ergo, Janesville wears the dress coat. So far as Janesville is concerned the dress coat is an institution of recent origin. It was not so many years ago since this city, in common with most western towns, and in open defiance of the stray breaths of culture wafted up occasionally from Beloit, was wont to stigmatize the wearer of a claw hammer as a dandy and to look upon the garment as an eye sore.

Two years ago a young man who appeared in evening dress was either envied as a fashionable millionaire or sneered at for a fashion plate.

Now it is different. Janesville although slow to adopt, is liberal enough to acknowledge a good thing sooner or later. The dress coat, at first regarded with distrust has gradually but surely stolen its way into the masculine affections. More than this, it has retained them. It speaks well for the stability of the Janesville man's purpose that he show a disinclination to have the dress coat, now that it has caught his fancy, be supplanted by any other form. Nothing so quickly excites the scorn of local processors (a dress coat as the periodical rumor from New York that full dress styles are to change).

Two years ago, as was said before, three dress coats at any party no matter how elaborate were an exception. This was changed by the "Bachelors Ball." Since then the seductive pen-tail has been called out frequently.

"Of late," said a local tailor last evening, "we have made more black suits up in full dress than in any other form."

A glance at Janesville society after sunset reveals many specimens of local manhood, that, in the full glory of the claw hammer, leave little to be desired so far as physical comeliness is concerned.

One who possesses the rare faculty of assuming evening dress without at the same time taking on a look of apprehension, is H. G. Carter. Upon him the dress coat becomes a thing of beauty, all angularity being forgotten.

To the already marked figure of Mr. T. J. Zeigler the attire of society lends an air of added strength and symmetry. On the canvassed floor his attitude (as it always is to an unusual degree) is one of rigid uprightness.

The palm of mere beauty, when arrayed in evening dress would probably be awarded to Herbert V. Allen. His dress coats follow the slight changes, decreed by fashion from time to time, closely, although with each new departure they seem only to approximate the more closely to what best suits his figure.

A pioneer among the younger advocates of modern society garb is Rob. M. Bostwick. His precedence is well earned, for his attire is of the newest and emits a radiance sought for in vain by the wearer of a garment of more remote date.

Will E. Evenson boasts full-dress regalia that possesses qualities by no means common. The tails of his dress coat were never known to be rumpled and they hang at his side with grace and symmetry that cannot be described. This virtue is one that not one dress coat in twenty can claim. The best of them are wont to "bulge" at the hips.

Al. Schaller is another whose vesture deserves a word for the same reason. It is not complete unless surmounted by a collar of monumental nature, and when thus enhanced it suits him well.

In all probability, there are in the city fifty who proudly enroll themselves in what Mrs. De Jinks calls the "conversational black." To mention them in detail is needless. Enough it is to say that Janesville after candle-light is now well prepared to show her readiness for advancement along all social lines. It appears cannot be said to count, then the avenues must be widely opened to that goal of culture toward which all are supposed to strive.

Do Not Suffer Any Longer. Knowing that a cough can be checked in a day, and the first stages of consumption broken in a week, we hereby guarantee Dr. Acker's English Remedy for consumption, and will refund the money to all who buy, take it as per directions, and do not find our statement correct. MR. HARRISON'S JOKE.

"What a large and handsome vice president you have, Mr. Harrison," said a lady, as Mr. Morton passed by.

"Yes," replied President Harrison, with a modest smile; "I have no small vice." —Washington Critic.

Terrible. Two-thirds of all deaths in New York City are from consumption or pneumonia. The same proportion holds for most other cities. Delays are dangerous. Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption will always relieve, and may save your life. Prentice & Evenson, druggists.
